A small group of Ms. Marbury's fifth graders worked with Lake Erie Ink from the end of January to the middle of March. Despite the challenges of remote learning and an interrupted schedule, the students worked well together and produced quality work. I'd like to thank Ms. Marbury and her wonderful students for their efforts.

We Are All the Same

5th graders in LEI Residency 2021 (Oxford) Group poem

We are all the same
We are all unique
I like fluffy dogs
I like ANY type of dog!
I like tigers with white and black stripes
I like its light tan color with white on its paws and ears.
It likes to stay in its pack; the wolf!!

We are all the same
We are all unique
I like winter & getting to spend time with family
I like to play in the snow
I like remote learning

We are all the same
We are all unique
I worry about what I see
I worry about losing people
I fear losing my friends
I fear spiders

We are all the same
We are all unique
My friends think I'm funny
I think I'm funny
I know I'm a good dancer
I am fun, kind and smart
I am helpful and caring
I am a good person

The Skunk in School

By Mason R.

A long while ago, there was a school. The teacher was lining the kids up to go to recess. They went downstairs. The last person to go outside left the door open. Then, the skunk came in and went to the class. One of the students went upstairs and the student saw the skunk and screamed, "The skunk ahhhhhhhhhhhhhh!" Then the skunk turned and sprayed the student. The skunk ran off while the student sat there crying. Then a teacher saw her and asked why she was crying. She said, "A skunk sprayed me." The end.

The Lost Crab That Can't Find Home

By Mariah N.

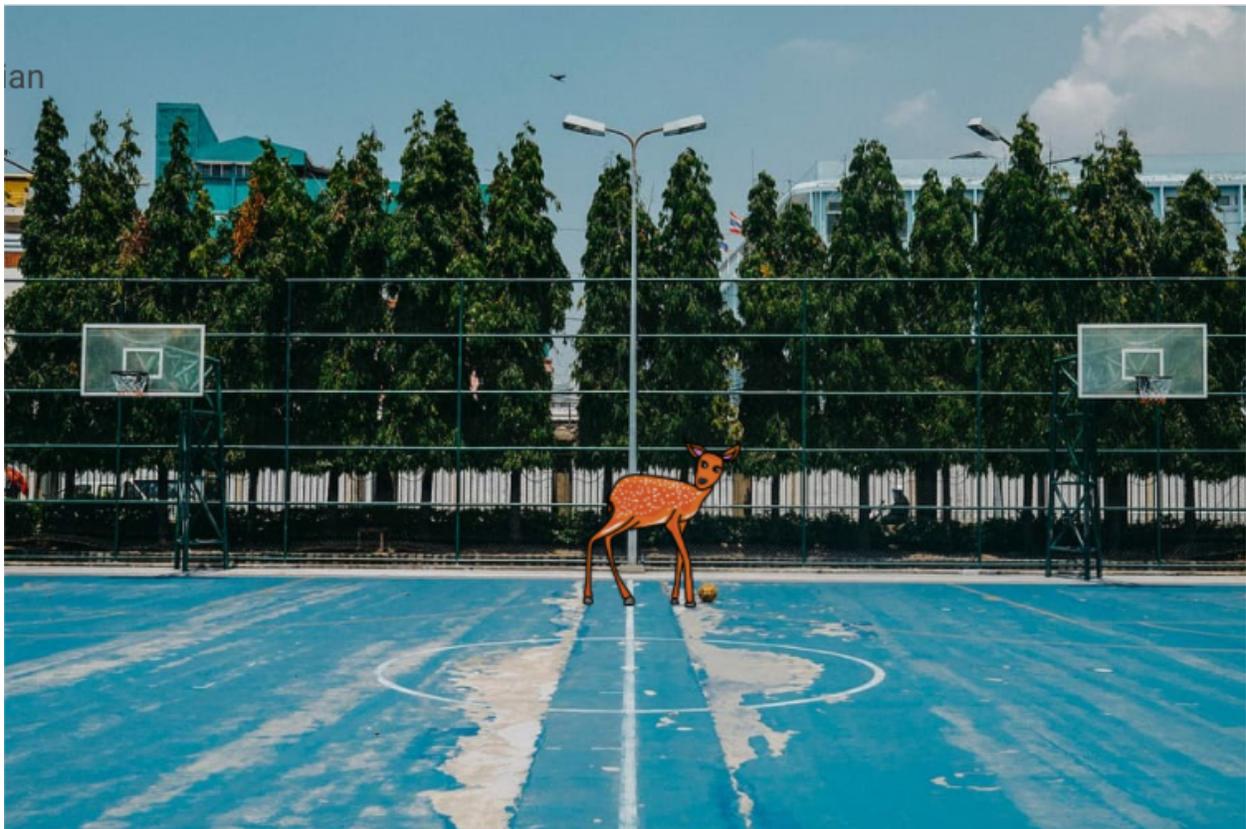

One day a crab was wandering. It walked past a mall and a beach. It wasn't thinking about where it was going, it just kept moving. It finally took a stop. "Where am I?" said the crab. The students in the swim class screamed. "Crab! Everyone run!" said the girl. Everyone ran out the water. The coach went in the water to catch the crab. The crab got scared and tried to pinch the coach. They got a net and got the crab out. "Can we keep it as a class pet?" said the boy. Everyone looked at the coach. "Why not?" said Coach. Everyone was very happy. Now the crab is not lost, and has a home.

The Deer Who Wanted to Play Basketball

By Julian W.

One day, a deer always had a dream to play basketball. He was thinking of escaping and he did. Then he escaped and do you know the first thing he did? He went to the basketball court. He didn't have 2 working arms to pick up a basketball. HE SAW MICHAEL JORDAN PLAYING!! He went over there, but he didn't like deers, so he just went home and admired a new basketball player.

The Intelligent Cardinal

By Miquel S.

Once upon a Time there was a cardinal in my kitchen. You are probably wondering why there is a cardinal in my kitchen. Well I left the window open last night. Now I think I'm hallucinating because it is talking! be quiet before I peck out your eyes Quickly The man turned From screaming to Whispering in a second.

Cats Have Style too

By Shalaya S.

Hi! My name is Shalaya. There was this wonderful salon down the street from my house. Well, I woke up from this deep sleep and I wanted to go to the salon. Can you guess what happened next?

The Hungry Mouse

By Rylee T.

One day a mouse wanted to find food but he couldn't, until he found THE place. Food everywhere! In a gym.

The Snake in the Big House

By Payson S.

There was a kid and parents and they had a big house. It was night and they were asleep. Then, when they woke up they saw a snake in their house. The mom and the dad called animal control, and the kid got it out with a rat.

PICTURE PROMPT STORIES

Me and My Big Brother

By Mariah N.

One day me and my big brother was walking to the park. I couldn't walk alone, my mom would not let me. She thought I was too young to walk alone even though it was daytime. "Hey, look at that field! We can take a nice picture there," said my brother. "Sure let's go." We ran into the field and my brother got out his phone. Then we heard something in the bushes. We got so scared we ran all the way to the park. "I think we are fine now, let's play," said my big brother. We played for hours, then we headed back home. We told our mom everything that happened. "I am happy you guys had fun, I'm going to go make dinner," said Mama. Mama was finally done cooking dinner. We eat then headed to bed. Mama tucked us in and put us to bed.

We Look Cute Together

By Shalaya S.

The two boys were outside playing. The one boy said, "Why do you always have to copy my outfits?" The second boy said, "Because we look cute together." The first boy said, "No, not really." The second dude said, "Come on, yes we do." The one boy said, "ok." Then they flew off on a magic carpet.

Matching Outfits

By Julian W.

Once upon a time, a little boy and his friend went on a hike. They wanted to go to the park with matching outfits. Then, a friend of one of the boys had the outfit.

The older brother got one, but the youngest didn't so he had to go in different paths to get the outfit. Then the kid told the youngest he will give him an outfit so he can go to the park.

But he had to pay him 20 dollars, but the real shirt was for 33 dollars. He was happy a lower price worked. The youngest brother had the shirt, finally. They went on some grass, and took a selfie. Then they will remember this moment and live Happily Ever After.

The Brothers

By Caylee L.S.

One day the brothers went to the park for a walk and took a selfie. It was a lovely day. They were happy and had matching outfits. They took the selfie but the little brother wanted to take it. Then his brother didn't let him but laughed and took the photo.
